Message from Mr. McConnell

What a wonderful week! It's been fantastic to see Ashleigh in action this week – the children are really back in the swing of school and I've seen some brilliant learning happening. The fact that the weather has been getting better has made our beautiful outdoor areas even more magical and it been a joy to see the how much the children are enjoying being together.

Have a great weekend!

P.S. Calling all Book Squirrels!

I've heard that there are thousands of pounds worth of library books which have been squirreled away over the last year which haven't made it back to school since they were taken home by the children. Please check under the beds, sofas and anywhere Ashleigh books might have been squirreled away and bring them back to school so that we can share them with everyone again. We'll put some boxes out before school next week if you can find any Ashleigh books which are hiding in your house, we would be very grateful to see them again!
